

Who is Who in the Policy Forum on Development

The Policy Forum on Development (PFD) is a multi-stakeholder dialogue established in 2013. Its members regularly debate development issues and how the European Union (EU) can best respond to them with the shared goal of improving the effectiveness of EU development cooperation.

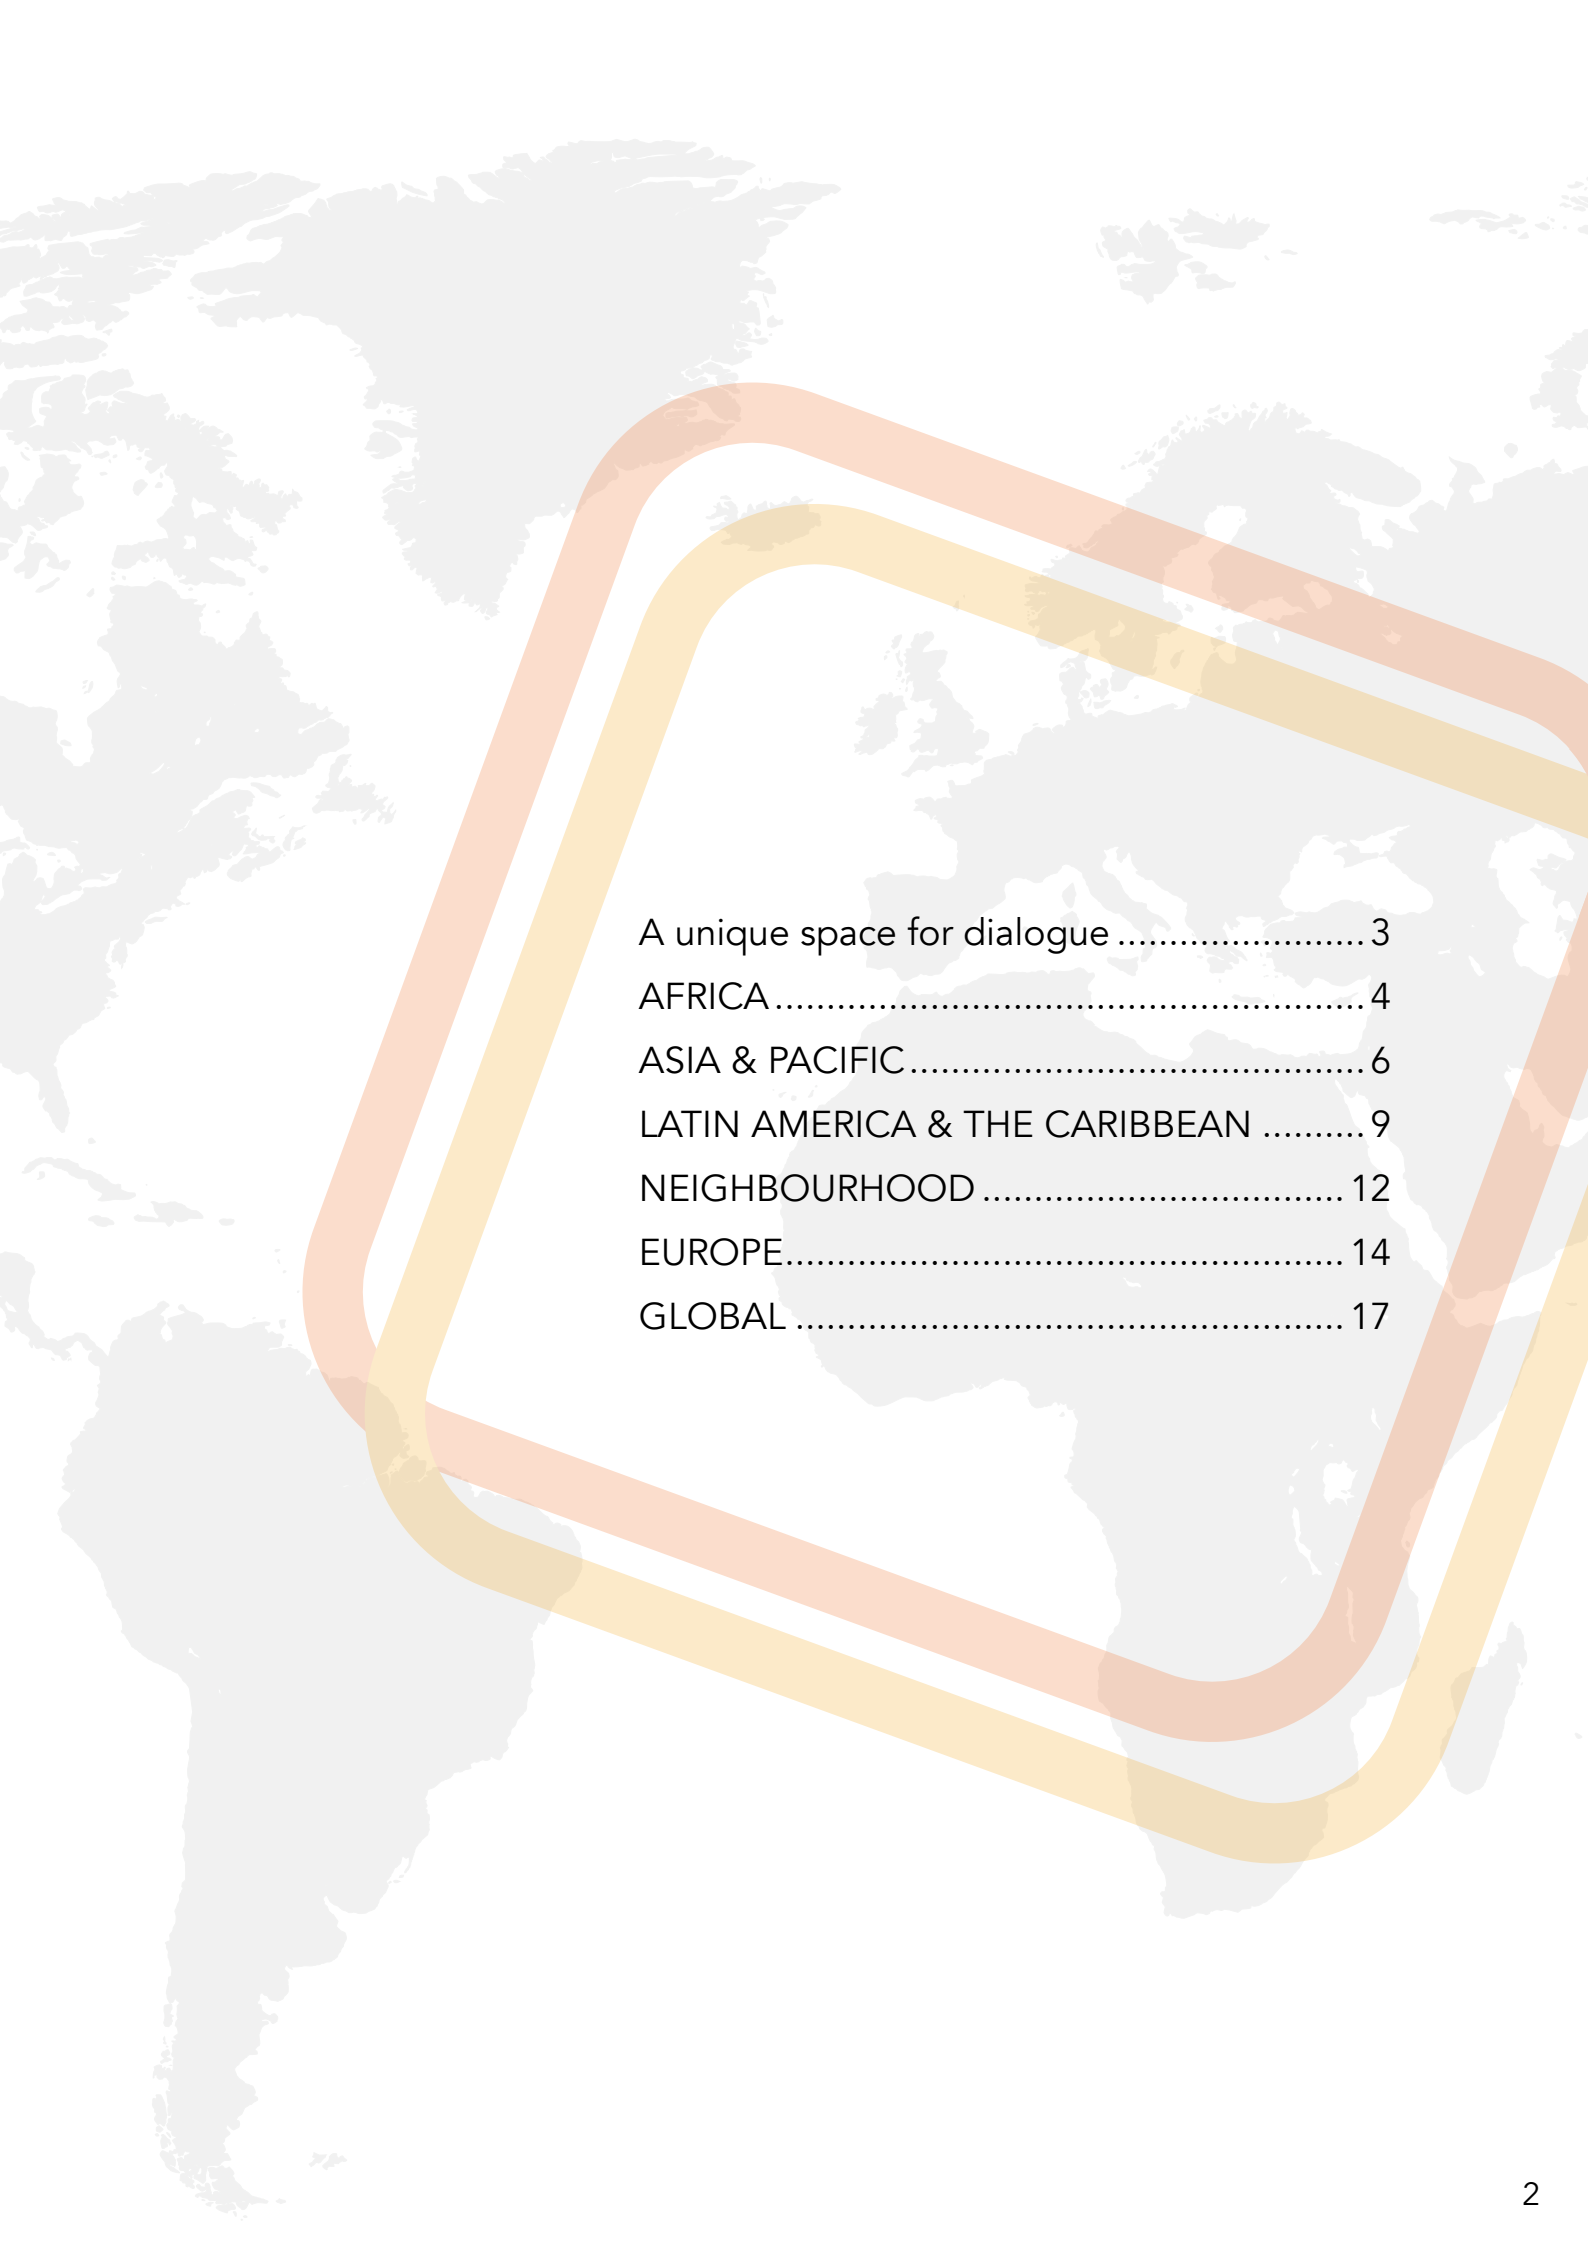

The PFD is a unique platform for dialogue for the many actors involved in development cooperation. The Forum brings together civil society organisations, local authorities, professional and business associations as well as representatives of EU Member States and institutions.

This Who is Who should be seen as a complement to the PFD brochure. It contains an overview of the current civil society and local authority members from the four main cooperation areas of the European Union: Africa, Asia& Pacific, the European Neighbourhood, Latin America and the Caribbean; as well as the European and global networks which are part of the PFD.
